Cheques or postal orders are not accepted. The registration fees are non-refundable. If the competition does not take place due to a low number of participants, the amount will be fully refunded. In this case, the interested contestants will be promptly informed.

c) Attachments to the application

- a. Copy of a valid ID/passport or identity card showing the photograph, date, and place of birth of the contestants and their nationality.
- b. Typed program of the compositions with the indication of the contestants and the category or section chosen by the candidate.
- c. Payment receipt.
- d. Recent photograph of the candidate.
- e. The attachments must be sent together with the application, within the established deadlines.
- f. Contestants are required to indicate the name and address of their teacher (if they have one) in the registration application.
- g. Registration for the competition implies unconditional acceptance of these regulations and any amendments made by the Organizing Committee.

6. CONDUCT OF THE COMPETITION

- a) The schedule and time of the competition will be communicated through the official website www.scarlattipianocompetition.it to all participants after the application deadline. The drawing of the initial letter of the surname from which the performances will begin will be carried out before the start of the trials of each section; contestants must present themselves at the competition with an identity document and, in the case of minors, accompanied by a parent or a teacher.
- b) Practice Pianos: at the start of the competition, contestants will be informed of the schedule for using the grand and upright pianos made available for rehearsals and warm-ups based on scheduled shifts to ensure equal practice opportunities for all contestants. It will be possible to book the use of the pianos by writing their name on the sheet that will be posted in the morning at the entrance of each rehearsal room. The practice schedule will be determined by the Organizing Committee. Contestants will have the opportunity to practice on the grand piano on which the audition will take place, at times set by the Organizing Committee daily. The contestants' performances may be recorded for the exclusive use of the Commission.
- c) Photocopies of the pieces handed over to the secretariat WILL NOT be returned but destroyed according to current reproduction prohibition regulations.
- d) Filming and recordings: it is forbidden to introduce recorders and cameras or camcorders in the halls during the performances, except through an express request provided to the Organizing Committee. Any recordings (video and audio), radio or television broadcasts of the category trials and the final award concert or subsequent concerts, do not constitute any right for the performers to any compensation. Such recordings will remain the exclusive property of the Trapani Classica Association and may be used for any purpose. By accepting these regulations, you consent to the recording and photographing of the selections and the final concert.
- e) The organization assumes no responsibility for any damage to persons or property during the course of the competition.
- f) Contestants may participate in multiple categories. Candidates can participate simultaneously in both a category and the piano performance competition. In these cases, they must send separate applications and make separate payments of the respective fees.
- g) Contestants may enroll in a category that provides for an age higher than that stipulated for their membership category or, even after enrolling in a category, move to a higher one, provided they request it in writing with an application and adjust the related registration fee, which must be received by the Competition Secretariat by the application deadline.

h) Performance by memory: contestants must perform the compositions presented by memory.

Contemporary period compositions can be performed with the score.

i) Accommodation: a list of hotels at special prices in the competition area will be communicated on the website to the registered contestants, who must book directly. Travel and accommodation expenses are entirely borne by the contestant. Food facilitation is also provided.

j) The Jury: persons who have family or affinity relations with the contestants or who have had private teaching relations within the two years preceding the Competition cannot be part of the Commission. In the case of public teaching relations, Commission members must abstain from participating in the discussion and expressing votes on the examination of the same contestants. The judging commission is formed by Concertists and Masters of International Fame.
